Who? Who is your relative?

Who? Who is your relative?

Warren Lammert is my uncle.

He lives in Boston, Massachusetts.

He was the chairman of the Epilepsy Foundation and the Epilepsy Therapy Project.

He went to Yale and is 50 years old.

What? What did he do?
What was his/her “claim

What? What did he do? What was his/her “claim to your fame?”

Warren Lammert founded and is chairman of the Epilepsy Therapy Project.

He merged it with the Epilepsy Foundation and it became the Epilepsy Therapy Project of the Epilepsy foundation.

His mission is “to stop seizures and SUDEP, find a cure and overcome the challenges created by epilepsy through education, advocacy and research to accelerate ideas into therapies.”

My uncle was born around 1967.

He was chairman of the Epilepsy Therapy Project from January 2002 to January 2012, and chairman of the Epilepsy Foundation from May 2013 to October 2015.

He founded the Epilepsy Therapy Project in January 2002.

Warren lives in Boston, Massachusetts. He has a house by the park with the Make Way for Ducklings statue.

His family has helped him do incredible things by encouraging him.

Why? Can you research that question? Why did they do what they did?

My uncle Warren did what he did because of his daughter, Sylvie. Sylvie has epilepsy, and it gave her seizures.

In order to help Sylvie and others with Epilepsy, he founded the Epilepsy Therapy Project, and merged it with the Epilepsy Foundation to form the Epilepsy Therapy Project of the Epilepsy Foundation.

How? Did their accolades occur over time, did it happen quickly. How did they leave their mark on you?

It took time for my uncle to grow the Epilepsy Therapy Project.

He started it before I was even born, in 2002. As I learned more and more about epilepsy and the Epilepsy Foundation, I came to realize how hard he had worked for his daughter and others with her same condition. That is how he left his mark on me.
